Commie Raid Stirs Talk of Enlarging War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist raid on a U.S. air base near Saigon early Sunday has stirred up new talk here of enlarging the war in South Viet Nam.

U.S. officials said today that events seem to be moving toward a confrontation between the United States and Communist North Viet Nam, backed by Red China, on the issue of security and peace in Southeast Asia.

The whole situation seems certain to get urgent attention from President Johnson and his top military and diplomatic advisers in the weeks following Tuesday's presidential election. Officials said the course the war actually takes in the weeks ahead will depend primarily on decisions to be made by North Viet Nam and Red China.

If the Communists decide to step up their support for the Viet Cong forces in South Viet Nam, these officials said, there is every prospect of very serious trouble ahead.

If they choose not to increase their efforts, it was said, the United States probably will follow about the same basic policy it has in the past — that is, supporting within South Viet Nam the efforts of that country's leaders to gain the upper hand in the long struggle with the Viet Cong rebels.

President Johnson met Sunday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other policy makers and experts on the Southeast Asian situation. The principal concrete action announced after the meeting was that the aircraft which were destroyed by the raid on Bien Hoa airfield near Saigon had been replaced.

Officials virtually ruled out any immediate retaliatory action against the Reds by U.S. forces. They said this was an incident within the war in South Viet Nam and not comparable to the North Vietnamese torpedo boat attack on U.S. destroyers patrolling in the Gulf of Tonkin last August. In that case the United States made destructive retaliatory air strikes on torpedo boat bases in North Viet Nam.

Some officials here speculated that the Viet Cong attack on the airfield may have been a delayed retaliation for the U.S. assault on the torpedo boat bases. The airplanes which were destroyed had been stationed in Bien Hoa following the Tonkin Gulf affair.

Other possible elements in the timing, cited here, were the fact that this is the anniversary of the overthrow a year ago of the Diem regime and it is also a time when the South Vietnamese are forming a new civilian government which U.S. authorities hope will intensify the struggle against the Viet Cong. Washington authorities said that there was no evidence indicating any link in timing between the raid and the U.S. election in which the South Vietnamese war has been a controversial issue.

Sees Defeat for Amendment 55

County Rep. N. B. Murphy predicted today that proposed Amendment 55 to legalize casino gambling in Garland County "would take the worst defeat in Tuesday's election of any amendment ever proposed to the citizens of Arkansas."

Murphy made the remark in a speech prepared for delivery to a Crossett civic club.

Murphy proposed a bill in the last legislature to set up a special division of the State Police to crack down on illegal gambling. The bill was amended to death.

Arkansas Has Choice for 1st Time in Century

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — For the first time in almost a century, Arkansans will vote Tuesday without being certain that they will elect a Democratic governor.

But the race between Democratic Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Republican Winthrop Rockefeller lost many of its two-party aspects in a clash of personalities.

The issues, too, were submerged in a wave of personal attacks.

But the race, teamed with a tight fight for the state's six electoral votes in the presidential race and a heated controversy over a proposed amendment to legalize gambling, drew a record 715,000 poll tax payments and 500,000 to 550,000 persons are expected to vote.

Both Faubus and Rockefeller avoided identification with the presidential nominees. Each gave his party's nominee a token endorsement and then ran his own race.

Arkansas never saw such a campaign. Conservative estimates place the total cost at $2 million. It may be much higher. Both sides spent as if money was in endless supply.

Rockefeller aimed his campaign at Faubus' political organization. He talked more about machine politics and election irregularities than about jobs, education, welfare and roads.

Beauty Shop Plans Open House Wed.

Hazel and Virginia's Beauty Shop will have Open House at its new location, 105 South Elm, on Wednesday, November 4, from 2 to 6 p.m. A careful choice of equipment and facilities offer both comfort and style to the customer.

Several weeks ago the shop's location for 23 years was totally destroyed by fire when the Barlow Hotel and adjacent building were razed. Now, the new and complete modern shop is directly across the street from its former location.

Hazel Abram, Virginia Fountain, and Mary Graham invite their friends and customers to come to the Open House on Wednesday. They can register for a free $15 permanent and numerous other free services, have refreshments, and see a beauty shop that is a beauty spot.

The Men He Left Behind Used His Own Technique to Topple Nikita Khrushchev From Top

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

How was Khrushchev dethroned? A combination of the military brass and conservative Communists — using lessons learned from Khrushchev — was behind the upheaval.

Why was Khrushchev dethroned? Apparently he lost the support of the Communist Party Central Committee. Soviet communism had been rocked by monumental failures — much of them due to the system and the built-in bureaucracy — under Khrushchev who had struggled to balance dogma with practicality.

In the Khrushchev era, the Soviet party and government were humiliated by the Cuban missile crisis; by agricultural failures requiring a turn to capitalist farmers to feed the Soviet people, and by a clear challenge from Red China to the Kremlin's world Communist leadership.

Khrushchev was not present Tuesday evening, Sept. 29, at a Moscow reception for visiting President Sukarno of Indonesia. Khrushchev did not know that his proteges, Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin — soon to take over his jobs — spent much of the evening off by themselves in earnest, private talk.

Khrushchev had not been too interested in paying homage to Sukarno, a man who had implicitly criticized his policies while seeking Soviet aid. In fact, Khrushchev was leaving for a vacation at his hideout at Gagra on the Black Sea.

By all odds, it should have been safe enough for him to leave. He had a formidable machine in the Central Committee. In the seven years since he ousted the Stalinist stalwarts from the party, Khrushchev had replaced about 75 per cent of all party secretaries around the country.

Many times before he had been able to turn his back on men in Moscow whom he considered his own proteges. Nothing important was in the offing except preparation of a welcome for a three-man space team which was going to orbit the earth.

There was no Central Committee meeting scheduled until the mid-November date Khrushchev had planned.

Washington (AP) — A passenger deeply in debt and insured for $105,000 pumped bullets into the two pilots of an airliner during a flight last May, the Civil Aeronautics Board said today. The plane crashed into a low California hill, killing 44 persons.

As the Pacific Air Lines plane was going down, a high-pitched voice cried into its radio system: "Skippers shot! We've been shot! I was try 'in to help" (sic).

The somewhat garbled message, recorded on tape and made public earlier, was the last word from the plane before it crashed and exploded.

In reporting today on its investigation of the tragedy, the CAB said that its crash experts, working with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, had concluded that the probable cause of the May 7 crash was "the shooting of the captain and the first officer by a passenger."

Francisco Gonzales, 27, Gonzalez was a native of the Philippines who was working for a San Francisco department store. Along with his 40 fellow passengers and three crew members, he died in the crash near San Ramon — only 21 miles from the Oakland Airport. The plane was bound from Reno, Nev., to San Francisco.

The CAB said Gonzales bought a revolver and ammunition on the evening of May 6, showed the gun to numerous friends, told one of them he intended to shoot himself, told others he would die May 6 or 7. It also said he bought insurance policies at the airport. Their total: $105,000.

Last Aug. 6 a new rule went into effect requiring that the door separating the passenger cabin from the crew cabin on all scheduled airlines be kept locked during flight.

Farmers Against Registration

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The 50,000-member Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation is opposing the voter registration amendment, its president said Sunday.

Harold F. Ohlendorf of Osceola said his group favored the present annual registration system over proposed Amendment 54, which would set up a permanent system. He said the present system is a better way to purge voter rolls.

Ohlendorf said any changes in the system should be made by the legislature.

Incompetence Is Charged by Goldwater

By WALTER R. MEARS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, hunting votes and luck, charged today that the "sheer incompetence" of Democratic strategists has set the U.S. back on communism in South Viet Nam on the brink of disaster.

The Republican nominee for the White House chose his campaign inaugural as the last major address of his race against President Johnson, offering anew in San Francisco the same words he uttered two months ago in Prescott, Ariz.

Goldwater fired off a statement in Phoenix demanding a "full and immediate explanation" from the Johnson administration of the Communist bombardment that killed four Americans and wounded 20 while destroying six jet bombers early Sunday.

"This administration owes every American an explanation," the Arizona senator said. "And it owes the cause of freedom a full accounting for its dereliction of duty in Viet Nam."

Later today, Goldwater planned a good luck visit to Fredonia, Ariz., a little country hamlet on the Utah border. He explained that he wound up his two winning Senate campaigns there and said conservatives believe in relying on the lessons of the past to shape the future.

Dealing with the Communist attack Sunday on the airfield 15 miles from Saigon, Goldwater declared: "I charge that the attack against our aircraft resulted because of sheer incompetence on the part of the political staff."

Johnson Is Confident of Victory

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, confident the country "will choose the leadership of the Democratic party" in Tuesday's balloting, heads today for his native Texas to wind up his campaign.

He scheduled three speeches at Houston and a finale at Austin.

Then, accompanied by Mrs. Johnson and their daughters, Lynda Bird and Luci Baines, the President will go to his Johnson City ranch — to wait.

The Democratic National Committee also planned a final NBC television program at 10 p.m. EST tonight in which Johnson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, his running mate, will make last-minute appeals for votes. Committee aides said the program was pre-recorded.

The President put in a busy day at the White House Sunday after an early morning return from New York where he told a huge, cheering audience at Madison Square Garden that he will win. He said Americans are rejecting "extremism in the pursuit of the presidency."

After attending church, the President met for 75 minutes with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other top aides on the situation in South Viet Nam. They discussed means of tightening defenses against Communist guerrilla mortar attacks like the one that hit the Bien Hoa airfield near Saigon early Sunday.

Four Americans were killed in the attack and 31 were wounded. Twenty-seven U.S. aircraft were destroyed or damaged.

The President ordered that the destroyed jets be replaced immediately.

In another action announced Sunday by the White House, Johnson set up a special task force to study means of preventing the spread of nuclear weapons.

Election Eve

The long, strident election campaign closes with indications pointing toward victory for President Johnson.

Sen. Barry Goldwater says the "sheer incompetence" of Democratic strategists produced the Communist attack against U.S. air base in Viet Nam.

Military sources say the loss at a U.S. air base near Saigon could be repeated at a dozen or more bases in South Viet Nam. Communist attack on U.S. air base stirs new talk of enlarging the war in South Viet Nam.

Khrushchev Said to Have Sclerosis

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Denmark's Communist party leader returned from Moscow today and said he understands Nikita Khrushchev is suffering from sclerosis.

Knud Jespersen, chairman of the Danish Communist party, added that the former Soviet premier is not receiving visitors because of his illness.

Jespersen made his remarks in a radio interview shortly before holding a news conference to announce the results of his fact-finding mission to the Soviet capital.

The dictionary definition of sclerosis is: "induration (hardening) produced in an organ by increase of its interstitial connective tissue; also degenerative replacement of tissues of the spinal cord or brain by neuroglia (tissue which fills the interstices and supports the essential elements of nervous tissue, especially in the brain, spinal cord and ganglia)."

Poll Watcher Can Only Observe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

His ruling was made at the request of Dan Felton of Marianna, Lee County Election Commission chairman.

Long Election Drive Comes to Close Today

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long, strident election campaign comes to a close today with every indicator of a computerized, poll-conscious era pointing toward victory for President Johnson.

In 27 hours of elapsed time, beginning at 12:01 a.m. EST Tuesday in some New England towns and winding up with the closing of polls in western Alaska, some 70 million Americans will choose a president, 25 governors, 435 House members and 35 senators.

Although he made no predictions on the extent of the victory he confidently expects, President Johnson obviously hoped he would roll up more than the century's record 60.8 per cent of the vote registered for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936. This would give him a massive victory in the 538-vote Electoral College.

GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater was predicting the "upset of the century" would make him the winner despite the poll indicators against any such result. Privately his aides were conceding only Maine, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Alaska and Hawaii to President Johnson.

Aides of Johnson said they had given up only on Mississippi and Alabama. They believe they have a chance to carry every other state, including Johnson's native Texas and Goldwater's native Arizona.

The two standard bearers make final televised bids for votes tonight.

The President and his running mate, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, will appear on a pre-taped program arranged for 10:30 p.m. EST on the NBC network.

Goldwater and his running mate, Rep. William E. Miller, will appear on a pre-taped 9:30-10 p.m. EST program to be carried by CBS.

Johnson heads for Texas this afternoon for election eve campaigning in Houston, Pasadena and Austin. Then he will fly with his family to their Johnson City home to await Tuesday's returns.

Goldwater, battling to win vital California, speaks today in San Francisco. Tonight he ends his vote-hunting travels in the little Arizona town of Fredonia, where he wound up both of his Senate campaigns. Then he flies to Phoenix to spend Election Day with his family at their home overlooking the Arizona desert.

Miller spent Sunday in Washington and plans to remain in the capital today before going to his Lockport, N.Y., home Tuesday.

Humphrey scheduled rallies today in Los Angeles and Salt Lake City before winding up in Minneapolis. He will be at his Waverly, Minn., home Tuesday.

In a campaign generally regarded as the bitterest in modern times, Johnson rode the issues of peace and prosperity. He tabbed Goldwater as an "extremist" and as a man whose finger could not be trusted near the button of nuclear war.

SIDE GLANCES

The Men He

shchev himself, as first party secretary, had planned to take up the vexing problem of Red China's challenge.

When Khrushchev greeted the orbiting astronauts by radio he was his old bubbly self. That was Monday, Oct. 12. He promised the spacemen he would be on hand to give them a gala reception in Moscow. He seemed fully confident he would be there.

Much of what happened to Khrushchev must remain in the realm of educated speculation. But there are deadly parallels in the history of Soviet politics: A suddenly called Central Committee meeting; a speech denouncing the current dictator; the military brass wielding a balance of power; and, ultimately, de-Khrushchevization, as there had been de-Stalinization, under his rule.

Khrushchev himself laid down the pattern in 1957. He enlisted the aid of Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov to summon a sudden meeting of the Central Committee — and paid his debt of gratitude to the old war hero by disgracing and retiring him.

Khrushchev set the precedent that the Central Committee could have the last word — even over the Presidium of the party, successor to the Politburo, a body that was never overruled.

The plot against Khrushchev may have been in existence a long time. Evidently from the moment Khrushchev left Moscow Sept. 30 well oiled machinery went into action, masterminded by a junta of powerful military figures and party Presidium members.

The story of 1957 and the anti-party group was repeated. Quietly, from all parts of the Soviet Union, Central Committee members flew into Moscow. They arrived from farflung points around the world, abandoning diplomatic stations in response to an urgent summons.

There was plenty of time to talk with them. The plotters could use to good advantage a widespread resentment of Khrushchev's obvious favoritisms — his appointment of relatives and friends to juicy assignments at home and abroad, his tendency to live high, his one-man decisions, his tendency to try, despite lack of full dictatorial authority, to run a one-man show.

The plotters played heavily on his many failures at home — in agriculture; in the shakeups and failures of the economy; in the rise of youthful and intellectual rebellion against party structures. Such things could threaten the party's authority.

They could play heavily on Khrushchev's foreign policy contributions to the splintering of communism around the world. They could point to the loss of a Kremlin grip on a useful world conspiracy. They could point to loss of authority over the direction of the world Communist movement. They could point to mishandling of a quarrel with Red China.

Khrushchev appears to have been nicely tricked.

The timetable of Khrushchev's fall is obscure at times but from available evidence this picture emerges:

Tuesday, Oct. 13: — Something seems out of whack. The spacemen land. Khrushchev does not talk with them by telephone as would be normal. One report has him at the Black Sea resort talking with a visiting French Cabinet official. Another report has it that Khrushchev received a telephone call at Gagra telling him a Central Committee meeting had been called. However and wherever he may have received this information, Khrushchev probably was enraged. Nobody but the first secretary of the party could call such a meeting.

Wednesday, Oct. 14 — The Central Committee is in session. As Khrushchev had done in 1946 at the 20th Parliament, at this time there is another secret speech. The speaker is the doctrinaire party theoretician Mikhail Suslov, voicing a long indictment of Khrushchev's leadership. Khrushchev defends himself in an impassioned three-hour speech, but his Central Committee support has melted away. He is outvoted.

Thursday, Oct. 15 — Kremlin leaders meet with a Cuban delegation, but there is no sign of Khrushchev. That night the Supreme Soviet (parliament) Presidium, with Mikoyan in the chair, divests Khrushchev "at his own request" of duties as premier. Khrushchev's portrait is removed from a place of honor near the Kremlin.

Friday, Oct. 16 — Just after midnight comes the announcement that the Central Committee and the Supreme Soviet Presidium "granted N.S. Khrushchev's request to be relieved of his duties because of his advanced age and deteriorating health."

Saturday, Oct. 17 — The press makes it obvious Khrushchev was forced out. Charges begin to appear: Hare-brained scheming, bragging, phrase-mongering, one-man decisions, violating the collective leadership principle.

Now, new confusion reins: the Communist world. Khrushchev's principal tormentors the Red Chinese, applaud his fall but otherwise remain aloof, waiting to judge what the new regime might stand for.

Around the world, Communists reeling with shock, demand explanations. In itself this is a mark of the Khrushchev decade. Communists before had always accepted Soviet upheavals without question. The reaction this time betokens loosening of the Kremlin grip on world revolution.

When mightily fall in the Communist world, they fall hard. Soon, Communists began to accept explanations. Khrushchev was reported assigned to a four-room apartment in Moscow on a pension of $1,100 a month, and there was bitter irony in it. The same apartment building housed V.M. Molotov and Marshal Zhukov, whom Khrushchev had disgraced.

Now de-Khrushchevization would set in. Khrushchev would be watched so there would be no comeback. He would gradually be pictured to the public as a bumbling, uncouth dictator who wrecked the Soviet economy at home, and the Communist movement and Soviet image abroad.

The catalogue of sins is long, as was the catalogue of Stalin's sins after Khrushchev took over.

Publicly, the most important accusations, concern Soviet humiliation, in the Cuban missile crisis, embarrassment at agricultural failures and the strong challenge from Red China. But probably most important is the sin of treading on the wrong toes.

Only two weeks before he was deposed, Khrushchev was pictured publicly as ready to give top priority to consumer industry. This was more than heresy, it was a one-man revolution. For all the years of the Soviet Union, emphasis had been on heavy industry which builds world and military power, with the consumer industry taking what was left. The Khrushchev notion implied cutting back military spending and the brass would not like it.

Almost everything that has gone wrong with the Soviet Union and world communism is likely to be blamed on Khrushchev in a general re-education of a Soviet public with whom he had been all too popular.

But many of the things that happened under Khrushchev probably would have happened anyway. The developments seemed to come from causes inherent in the Soviet system.

The new regime may try to reverse many of Khrushchev's policies. But momentum already created in the U.S.S.R. has built up heavy demand among the Soviet population for a larger share of Soviet riches. In the long run, even the new regime is likely to feel obliged to make concessions to these pressures.

One national stage line crossed Arkansas in 1860. This was the Butterfield Overland Mail Line, set up in 1858.

Letters to the Editor

This is your newspaper. Write to it. Letters criticizing the editorial policy or commenting upon facts in the news columns, are equally welcome. Every writer must sign his name and address.

Editor The Star: I read the letter from Mrs. Haggard concerning the number of dogs on North Main. We live on North Main also and agree with her about the dogs. Although my concern is of a different nature regarding North Main and West Avenue D.

It's the traffic around 7:30 or 8:00 every morning traveling up West Avenue D. by old Oglesby School. There are 20 or 25 children that catch the bus at the old school. Our 6 year old son is one of those children. I've seen people in cars come through so fast without slowing down. They have no regard whatever for the safety of those children. Children of all ages are unpredictable, but more so the little ones.

I watch those cars and swallow my heart 2 or 3 times. I don't know why people can be so inconsiderate.

My husband and I have both asked the Police Department to at least put a Slow sign out there. They assured me they would, saying they had had other complaints on the same problem. Time has passed and I still see the cars speeding through there and still no sign.

I, as a parent, would like to know isn't there something can be done for their safety? If my child or one of the other one's were hit, saying, "I'm sorry," wouldn't bring the child back. I think something should be done. Who does one see if the

Gambling Bill Passage Said to be Bought

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — David H. Ward of Conway, chairman of the Faulkner County branch of Churches United Against Gambling, said "hoodlum elements" would try to buy passage of the legalized gambling amendment in the county.

Ward said cash and whisky were being brought into Faulkner County in an effort to influence Negro voters and "others who are not well-read on the evils of casino gambling."

"I have it on good authority," Ward said, "that an unlimited amount of money will be spent in Faulkner County to gain voters for Amendment 55."

Ward, a Nazarene Church layman, said 400 pints of whisky had been sent into the Conway area to be used in the election.

When told of Ward's statement, Haines Hower, chairman of the public information committee of the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce, issued the following statement:

"The Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce has no knowledge of any electioneering activity of this type that Mr. Ward describes as being in connection with Amendment 55. They are certainly not connected with the Chamber of Commerce."

Last Speeches Set Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Winthrop Rockefeller looked back today the long campaign trial today, prepared for their last speeches tonight, and got ready to vote.

Faubus planned a half-hour broadcast at 7:30 tonight over a statewide television network. Rockefeller prepared for a Republican rally at Little Rock's Robinson Auditorium, part of which will be televised from 8 to 9 p.m.

Faubus will vote in his home town of Huntsville Tuesday. Rockefeller will vote at the Cedar Falls box in a general

Bobcats Finally Make Top 20 State Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A rugged unbeaten Conway football team has become the No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll of the state's top prep squads, and the Wampus Cats did it by knocking off last week's leader, Little Rock Central, 7-0.

Conway is the first Class AA team to make it to the top this year, and on the way up three other teams now in the first ten fell to the Cats.

Other teams in this week's ranking, in order, are Little Rock Hall, Little Rock Central, Texarkana, Little Rock Catholic, Benton, Pine Bluff, Rogers, Stuttgart and North Little Rock.

Other rated teams toppled by Conway were Catholic and North Little Rock. Remaining for Conway is sixth-rated Benton.

Hall held onto No. 2 with a 13-7 victory over Pine Bluff. Central dropped to third, where Conway was last week; and Texarkana moved from fifth to fourth on a 13-7 triumph over El Dorado.

Catholic moved up a spot to fifth although the Rockets had an open date last week; Benton came up one after dumping Jacksonville 35-6; and Pine Bluff dropped from fourth to seventh on North Little Rock's 13-7 victory.

Rogers moved into the top ten at eighth by staying unbeaten with a 14-7 triumph over Springdale; Stuttgart upped its position by one to ninth, trouncing Forrest City 35-0; and North Little Rock pulled into the standings again at tenth.

Results of the poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, and total points at right:

Red Wings Extend Win Streak to 6

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was the night after Halloween and ghosts were rattling all over the Detroit Olympia where the National Hockey League Red Wings extended their unbeaten streak to six games beating Toronto 4-2.

Two long-time adversaries, Dickie Moore of the Maple Leafs and Ted Lindsay of the Red Wings led a rather unfriendly reunion and Gordie Howe celebrated the occasion by rewriting another line in the NHL record book.

Lindsay, making a comeback after sitting out four seasons, and Moore, back after one year off the ice, didn't take long to renew acquaintances. They touched off a first-period explosion in which Lindsay drew two minors and a misconduct penalty and Moore got a minor and misconduct.

Broyles Praises Hogs Attitude and Condition

By BILL SIMMONS

Associated Press Writer

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—

Coach Frank Broyles said Sunday that this year's Arkansas football team reported in the fall "in tip top shape" physically and mentally "and this has gone a long way toward our success."

He parceled out praise for his offensive line, his running backs, his defenders and a host of players individually in an interview after the Razorbacks' 17-0 victory over Texas Tech Saturday.

Broyles said the team's physical condition was "the best I've ever seen" and that the players' mental attitude was "the best I've ever seen."

He also was the 50th victory for Broyles since he came to Arkansas in 1958.

Rice University is "the next best thing" to the fourth-ranked Razorbacks at Fayetteville Saturday.

"Rice always is a good game for us," Broyles said. "We're on top right now and we know that the other teams don't have any trouble getting ready mentally for the team on top in the Southwest Conference."

"Only Arkansas is unbeaten in Conference play. The mental attitude of our players from very early in the fall has been very good," Broyles said. "The fact that they reported in such good shape has been the difference in the fact that we have had so few injuries."

Only Jerry Lamb, the split end and pass receiver, has sustained a worrisome injury since a shoulder b.f.f.'s.e. sidelined quarterback Fred Marshall in the first two games. Lamb suffered a muscle pull in the Texas game. Broyles said that he is not certain whether Lamb will see action against the Owls.

Broyles praised his offensive line as "real quick and strong," and he commented about each of his linemen "since the defense has had a lot of publicity and most people know what they've been doing."

"But our offensive line has been playing really great," Broyles said. "They get in there and move them out. They take the fight to them."

He lauded tackles Glen Ray Hines, Mike Bender and Dick Cunningham, guards Jerry Welch and Jerry Jones for clearing the way in the long scoring drives against A&M. Marshall threw and ran for big plays that kept the marches alive, wingback Jim Lindsey had big gains on power sweeps and tailback Jack Braxwell ran for the touchdowns.

Placement specialist Tom McKelney kicked two extra points and a field goal to send his point total for his career beyond 100.

Broyles said Rice may be the big test for Arkansas' offense since the Owls held Texas to less than 100 yards total offense. The Longhorns beat Rice 63-

Everybody Is Seeking Irish for Bowl Game

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Scratch the Pretzel Bowl people from a long list of bird dogs courting Notre Dame's bowl shy college football powerhouse — and count just about everyone else in.

The Pretzel Bowl is history, Albright having twisted Moravians 400 Saturday in the renewal at Reading, Pa., but the big things aren't too far off. Unbeaten Notre Dame has become the top target for a post season commitment despite the long-standing nobowl policy at South Bend.

The ragstoriches Irish, run nerup to Ohio State in last week's Associated Press poll, shipwrecked Navy 400 Saturday while the Buckeyes barely held off Oowaa 21-19.

As a result, Coach Ara Parseghian's explosive team, led by passer John Huarte, passcatcher Jack Snow and a bruising defense, is challenging for its first national championship since 1949.

Notre Dame has indicated a willingness to decide the title in a post-season playoff similar to last year's Texas-Navy showdown. The Sugar Bowl committee, among others, is eager to arrange such a meeting. First, however, the Irish must get Pitt (next Saturday), Michigan State, Iowa and Southern California.

Ohio State, dueling surprising Purdue for the Big Ten crown and a Rose Bowl berth, ept its slate clean by stopping Iowa star Gary Snook's bid for a tying two-point conversion in the final seconds. The Buckeyes and Notre Dame each have won six straight.

The Boilermakers knocked off defending champion Illinois 26-14, matching Ohio State's 40 conference record. Michigan, 31, stayed in the running with a 350 runaway over Northwest Ohio. The Nov. 21 meeting of Ohio State and Michigan could decide the race.

Stanford's 10-8 upset of seventh-ranked Oregon — on Braden Beck's last-minute field goal — and Washington's 14-13 decision over Southern California put the Pacific Conference up for grabs. Six Pacific Athletic Conference teams have a shot, with Oregon State the current leader at 20 after trimming Washington State 24-7.

Oregon was the only top ten representative to stumble but Nebraska, Texas and Louisiana State, Nos. 5, 6 and 9, had close calls.

The Cornhuskers, candidates for a return trip to the Orange Bowl, beat Missouri 90 after being blanked for three periods. Ernie Koy's second period touchdown gave Texas a 7-0 verdict, slightly regarded Southern Methodist and kept the unbeaten Longhorn's Southwest Conference title hopes

Porkers Still Need 3 Games for SWC Title

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Arkansas has three games to win before it can claim its first undefeated, untied team in 55 years and there's no one in the Southwest Conference to say the Razorbacks won't do it, too.

Arkansas blanked Texas A&M 17-0 Saturday for its seventh straight and 4-0 record in conference play.

Rice SMU and Texas Tech lurk ahead but none of them figures to ruin Arkansas' chances of a return to the Cotton Bowl after an absence of four years.

The Razorbacks could clinch a championship tie this Saturday. Texas, the only other team left with a chance at the title, would have to lose to Baylor while Arkansas was trimming Rice.

Then Arkansas would be 5-0 with two games to play, with all other members of the league with at least two losses each.

Arkansas actually has an eight-game winning streak working — the Razorbacks took the last one on the 1963 schedule, beating Texas Tech 27-20.

Field goals continued to be the conference's chief weapon last Saturday with Texas Tech's Ken Gill booting two to give the Red Raiders a 6-6 tie with Rice.

Bruce Alford kicked one for TCU as the Horned Frogs edged Baylor 17-14.

Arkansas didn't need it, but Jim McNeill kicked a field goal in the triumph over A&M.

The only game in which a field goal didn't figure in the scoring came when Texas beat SMU 7-0.

While Rice and Arkansas battle at Fayetteville, Texas will be meeting Baylor at Waco and Texas A&M and SMU will play at Dallas in other league games.

Long Election

Offering what he called "a choice and not an echo," Goldwater zeroed in on "morality in the White House," crime in the streets, big government and personal freedoms. He called the administration "soft on communism" and suggested that the solution of the civil rights problem lay in the hearts of men rather than in legal measures.

The Republican nominee's hope of victory is based on his belief that there is only surface support for Johnson and that a hard core of conservatives will get out an unexpectedly large vote for him, just as they did in the June 2 California primary which boosted him along to the party nomination. His strategy is based on winning most of the South and on carrying such key states as Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and California.

There was general recognition among Johnson's supporters that he had a built-in advantage as an incumbent President who took after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Linked to this was Johnson's success in getting Congress to act on a legislative program which had been stalled under Kennedy. Also cited was the President's action in the Gulf of Tonkin incident and his assessment that the explosion of the Red Chinese nuclear device and the Soviet Union's ouster of Nikita Khrushchev had not changed world conditions materially.

Whatever the reasons, a victory by Johnson of the scope indicated by most of the polls would be certain to affect the outcome of congressional and statehouse races.

Extensive ticket splitting was forecast, principally among Republicans who regard themselves as moderates unable to go along with Goldwater's views.

Senatorial contests in New York, California, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Texas were in the spotlight.

Johnson campaigned last Saturday for former Atty. General Robert F. Kennedy in his battle to oust Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating in New York. Keating has declined to endorse Goldwater. Nevertheless, the latter urged voters to support the senator. The feeling was that the extent of Johnson's expected margin in the state would influence the outcome.

In California, Johnson also campaigned for Democratic Sen. Pierre Salinger, his former White House press secretary who also served under President Kennedy. But Republican George Murphy, who veered away from the Goldwater camp during the campaign, was given a chance to win — if Johnson's margin is held down.

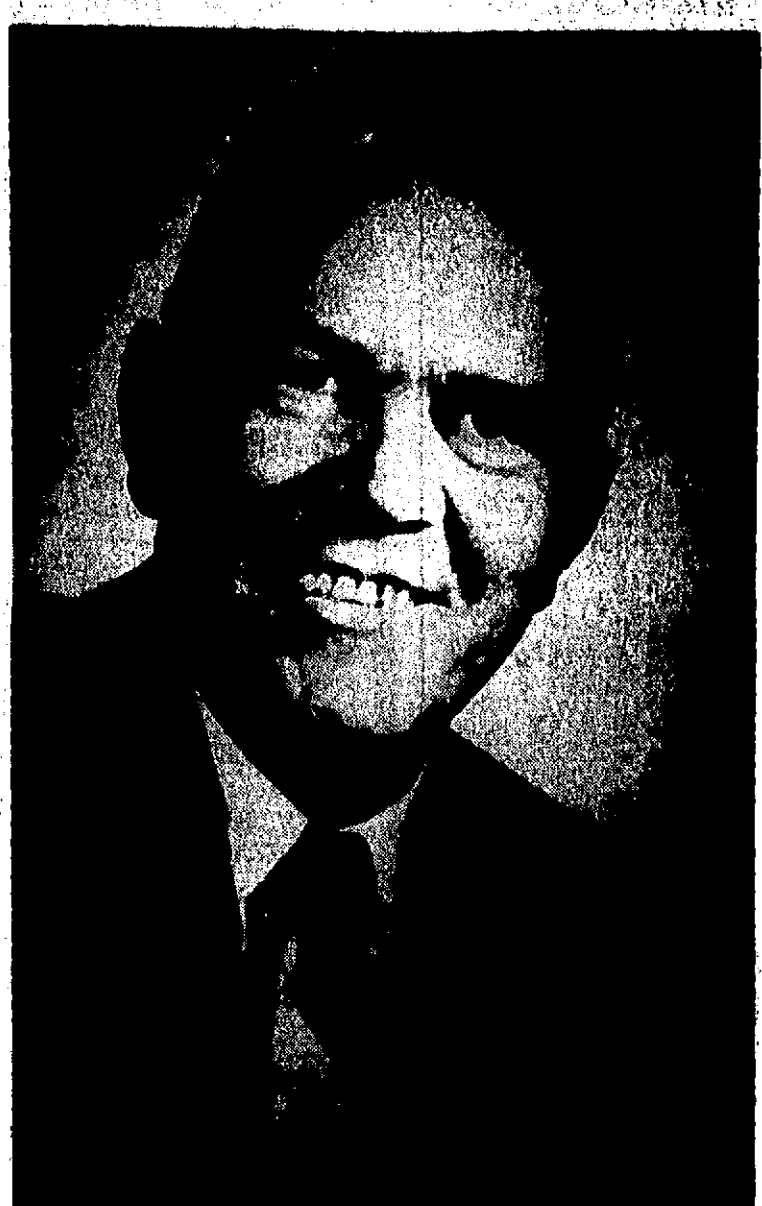

In Pennsylvania, GOP Sen. Hugh Scott, another Republican moderate, was battling for his political life in what both sides viewed as a tie running for Johnson.

In Ohio, Rep. Robert Taft Jr. was seeking to oust Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young. Like Keating and Scott, Taft carried the hopes of the moderates of regaining control of Republican party machinery if Goldwater loses.

In Texas, which Goldwater said he had to win to gain the presidency, the signs pointed to a Johnson victory. But the President had given no help since early in the campaign to Democratic Sen. Ralph Yarborough and there was some thought that Republican George Bush could win.

Johnson has been predicting that the Democrats will increase their strength in the Senate from the present 66 seats to 70. He has made no public predictions on the House outcome. But Democrats generally diers who have been running and ruining the show in Viet Nam.

He hinted in a Sunday interview that Communist guerrillas might have staged the mortar barrage in hopes of influencing Tuesday's presidential election in Johnson's favor.

There was no mention of this in the written statement Goldwater issued before he flew up to San Francisco for a last effort to capture California's 40 electoral votes.

Goldwater said before the attack, the government was warned by a former highly placed official of the military that airfield defenses were inadequate. He did not name the man.

Goldwater said the warning apparently was ignored.

He called for a "full and immediate explanation by this administration and by the civilian strategists who have let the war in Viet Nam drift right up to its present brink of disaster."

In the San Francisco speech, Goldwater sounded the themes that have been his ammunition throughout the race against Johnson. He called for curtailment of the power and size of the government. He promised an end to the draft. And he demanded that the Democrats "go to work effectively and believe that if the President runs as well as forecast, they will increase their present 257 178 margin — including vacancies — over the Republicans.

Of the 25 governorships at stake, 18 now are held by Democrats. Republicans have hopes of breasting any Democratic trend to make some gains in these contests.

Arkansas Has attacked Rockefeller's New York background, the manner in which the Rockefeller family wealth was accumulated, and some of Rockefeller's associates.

Rockefeller accused him of waging a campaign of "slandor, smears and tears." Faubus responded that he has to destroy Rockefeller's "false image as a Father Christmas for Arkansas."

Faubus tried to convince Arkansas voters that they had nothing in common with the rich Republican candidate. Rockefeller said progress under the Faubus administration had been "illusory" because Arkansas had lost ground in most economic areas with other states.

Rockefeller said he got into the race to build a two-party system in Arkansas, but he failed to keep his party united behind him. A struggle for party power, from which Rockefeller emerged victorious, also may, left many bitternesses and some Old Guard Republicans were actively or passively supporting Faubus.

The "out" faction of the Democratic Party was just as vigorously behind Rockefeller.

The candidates closed their formal campaigns Saturday night with the Faubus forces boldly predicting victory; and Rockefeller saying guardedly that "Victory is in the air."

The campaign, which had a "battle of the century" billing, failed to produce any spectacular developments.

Rockefeller presented himself as a "man with a plan" for economic development of Arkansas and he stuck with this line even though Faubus kept asking, "What plan?"

"Rockefeller hasn't suggested one thing that we aren't already doing," Faubus said. "He says it's time for a change. A change to what?"

Rockefeller said Faubus was so busy attacking him that the governor didn't have time to discuss the issues. He said Faubus "keeps talking about what has happened while I am looking to the future."

He noted that Faubus posed driving a team of mules at a rally at Rison and he called this a symbol of the campaign. "I want to take Arkansas into the jet age and he wants to keep us in the horse and buggy era," Rockefeller said.

The most talked about campaign "issue" was a Faubus charge that Rockefeller employees had wrecked a cemetery near Carlisle. Rockefeller said this was a "flat lie" and his side hoped that the charge would react against the governor. Faubus stick to his story immediately to restore proper respect for law and order in this land — and not just prior to Election Day, either.

"Every word I have just spoken to you is from the very first speech of this presidential campaign," he said. "The issues have not changed. I have not changed. The challenge and the choice have not changed."

and hoped he had outraged some voters.

The candidates were never far apart on the issues — jobs, education, welfare, roads and gambling.

Each said industrial development should be accelerated. More money was needed for education, welfare benefits should be improved and that the state more money was needed for education, welfare benefits could be improved and that the state needed a better system of rural roads. Each opposed the gambling amendment, which would legalize gambling in Garland County.

But Rockefeller challenged Faubus' sincerity on this issue, charging that the governor allowed illegal gambling to flourish in Hot Springs for nine years before ending it on the eve of the campaign.

Rockefeller said he opposed gambling on moral grounds. This brought a host of allegations from Faubus that Rockefeller was in a poor position to raise a moral issue. He said money from a gambling casino in Puerto Rico, owned by a member of the Rockefeller family, was helping finance Winthrop's campaign. He talked about the liquor supply at Winrock Farm, Rockefeller's mountain estate.

Rockefeller's main strength is concentrated in Northwest Arkansas and Pulaski County, where Faubus has never run strong. Faubus is running strongest in eastern and southern Arkansas and in the mountain counties of the north central section where he has always received solid support.

The Rockefeller forces are counting on a 30,000 vote majority in Pulaski County, heavy majorities in Washington and Benton counties, splits in the other larger cities and a good vote in the non-Delta counties of Northeast Arkansas to carry them through.

ons. He named Roswell L. Gilpatrick, New York lawyer and former deputy secretary of defense, chairman of the group which is to report early next year.

In his Madison Square Garden speech Saturday night, the President bitterly assailed Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee. He called him a man dedicated to "extreme ideas."

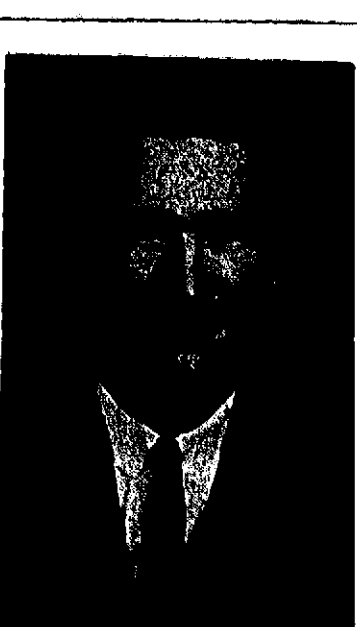

Without naming Goldwater, the President said the Republican was not a true conservative but only a radical who had resorted to "smears and scandal."

Johnson said Goldwater and his running mate, Rep. William E. Miller, "ran smack into the good sense of the American people. They discovered, as far as the American people are concerned: 'Extremism in the pursuit of the presidency is an unpardonable vice. Moderation in the affairs of the nation is the highest virtue.'"

The President said he is ending a campaign "which will see the American people choose the leadership of the Democratic party."

500,000 Vote Seen for State

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Secretary of State Kelly Bryant today predicted a record Arkansas vote of between 500,000 and 510,000 in Tuesday's general election.

Republican forces predicted it would be even higher. G. Thomas Eisele, Winthrop Rockefeller's campaign manager, said the vote would top 525,000.

Arkansas never has turned out as many as 500,000 voters. The state has a record registration of more than 715,000 compared to about 633,000 last year.

Good weather was expected on election day.

THIS WAS THE FIRST TOUCHDOWN FOR HOPE AT Hammons Stadium last Friday night. Halfback Jerry Burnett went over from the 6-yard stripe for the tally with 3:56 left in the first quarter. Arrow marks Burnett's approximate position under a pile of players. Identifiable Bobcats left to right: Guard Tommy Still, 66; End Larry May, 85; End Stan Parris, 83.

JORDAN PASSES TO BURNETT, ARROW, FOR 11 yards and a first down on Camden's 16, with 4:35 left in the first quarter.

JORDAN LATERALS TO HALFBACK Johnny Samuels, arrow, who missed it but recovered the ball — for a gain of one yard.

Fair Day for the Election

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. Weather Bureau called today for clear to partly cloudy weather in Arkansas through Tuesday, election day, but says increasing southerly winds may push rain into the state by Wednesday. Mild temperatures—in the 70s during the daytime and 40s and 50s at night — are predicted through Tuesday. Maximum temperatures Sunday ranged from 73 degrees at Fayetteville to 82 degrees at Texarkana. Overnight low readings ranged from 47 degrees at Little Rock to 25 degrees at

Palmer Newspapers Endorse No. 54

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP)—The chairman of the Committee for Voter Registration an-nings ranged from 47 degrees at Little Rock to 25 degrees at nounced Saturday that the Palmer Media Group, which publishes newspapers in five Arkansas cities, has endorsed Amendment 54. The amendment would establish a system of permanent voter registration. Dr. H. D. Luck of Arkadelphia, committee chairman, said the Palmer papers pointed out that "the amendment is simple, workable and provides a maximum amount of voter participation." It has been endorsed by both gubernatorial candidates, several other newspapers and a number of organizations.

Election Officials Are Removed

The Democratic Party has removed four Democratic election judges and clerks for Tuesday's election at the request of Republican Party official James Hurley. Hurley objected to the four serving in the posts because they hold government-related positions. He made the objection under a ruling by Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett. The Democratic Party issued a statement saying they knew of Republican judges and clerks who also held government-related positions but would not ask for their removal. The Democrats said they trusted the Republicans would do an "efficient and accurate" job. Those removed were Harold Henson, a Springdale alderman; Fritz Ahrend of the University of Arkansas Division of General

Extension; Ellis Coper, an employee of the state Revenue Department and Guy Smith, manager of the Springdale Migrant Worker center. The new Madrid earthquake of 1811 caused the St. Francis River to change its course and created what is now Craighead County.

Tabulation Fastest in History

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The fastest tabulation in history is being planned for the general election Nov. 3.

In Arkansas alone, more than 300 special election workers will be collecting returns from around the state and feeding them into the election headquarters in Little Rock.

In the headquarters, more than 50 special workers will be taking in the returns and tabulating them.

From there the returns on the races for president, governor and Congress will go out by wire to all news media—through the wire services to the newspapers and broadcast stations, and to the national radio and television networks.

The operation is part of the Network Election Service, a nationwide combination of the resources of the two wire services, The Associated Press and United Press International, and the three television networks, American Broadcasting Co., Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co.

The formation of NES marks a historic first in election tabulation.

In previous years each wire service and network handled its own tabulation and distributed its own set of vote returns.

The combination of forces eliminates duplication of effort and permits a concentration of resources unmatched in the history of election tabulations.

For the newspaper reader, the television viewer and the radio listener, the result will be a steady flow of one set of returns throughout election night, without confusing differences in returns of previous years.

In Arkansas, the Network Election Service is under the direction of Thomas J. Dygard, chief of bureau of The Associated Press in Little Rock.

Civic, social and study groups are cooperating with the NES in a new plan to speed up the reporting of returns in Arkansas' most populous areas.

The Fort Smith Junior Chamber of Commerce, headed by Larry Kincannon, will man precincts in Sebastian County and feed vote returns through a special election desk at the Fort Smith Southwest American to the NES election headquarters.

The Pine Bluff Junior Chamber of Commerce, under John Suskie, will man precincts in Jefferson County and feed re-

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie crowd, being a sentimental sort, always draws special cheer from the sight of a second-generation performer who achieves success. That's why there is double delight in the achievement of Elizabeth Montgomery.

The town also likes a hit, and it seems certain that Miss Montgomery's television vehicle, "Bewitched," is a runaway success of the new season.

For Liz Montgomery "Bewitched" could be a particular triumph, since she got it with no reliance on her famous father. He is Robert Montgomery, suave star of films in the '30s and '40s, later television producer of his own series and for President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Liz is not one to brood over her lot as scion of a star.

"Sure, people are always mentioning that I'm Robert Montgomery's daughter," she remarked. "Why should that bother me? I'm proud of the fact."

"It helped me a great deal when I was getting started in acting."

"But after that initial advantage — then it's entirely up to you. You have to prove yourself, or else."

The tilt-nosed blonde has been following her father's profession for 10 years with varying degrees of success. She appeared in 250 live television plays. She played on Broadway in "Late Love" and in a Gary Cooper film, "The Court-Martial of Billy Mitchell." In recent times she has won an Emmy nomination for "The Untouchables" and starred in the films "Johnny Cool" and "Who's Been Sleeping in My Bed?"

She and husband Bill Asher, television director, were preparing another series when Screen Gems sent the script of "Bewitched."

Bill directed the pilot last November and it sold to ABC immediately. But the series faced one of the roughest schedules in television, all because the Ashers were having a production of their own.

William Asher Jr. was born last July 24. By that time, most filmed series are well into their fall production schedule. "Bewitched" had only the pilot.

"I asked my obstetrician when I could go to work after the baby," said Liz. "He said six weeks. 'How about five?' I asked. Maybe," he conceded. "Or maybe four?" I asked.

"I went back to work three weeks after the baby. I got a little tired some days. But you don't mind when the show is a success, and they tell me 'Bewitched' is."

Against New Look at Birth Control Plan

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Leading Conservative prelates argued today against a new look at birth control by the Roman Catholic Church. They told the Vatican Ecumenical Council that married couples should trust in Divine Providence.

Two Vatican Curia cardinals — Alfredo Ottaviani and Michael Browne — rose in the council St. Peter's Basilica to oppose demands by other prelates for fearless re-examination of all aspects of marriage morality.

Cardinals and bishops, many of them leading progressives, said Thursday the problem must not be avoided in the current council debate on its schema on modern world problems.

Cardinal Ottaviani, secretary of the powerful Vatican Holy Office, said he disagreed with present wording in the Schema under debate that married couples should be free to plan the size of their families.

"This is something unheard of in the past ages of the church. Married couple should never doubt Divine Providence."

Cardinal Browne, Irish-born Dominican theologian who has worked in Rome for years, told the council: "We must stress that the primary end of marriage is the procreation and education of children."

Speakers had praised the schema Thursday for avoiding this traditional church teaching, that procreation in marriage is primary with precedence over love and sex.

Cardinal Browne said family planning was a subject "about which a discussion cannot usefully be held."

Several other bishops, arguing along the same lines as Cardinal Ottaviani, said the schema should emphasize trust in God's providence in bringing children into the world.

The council is deep in debate on marriage problems and other issues of the modern world. The theologians said a definite shift is coming in the church's traditional outlook on the sexual side of marriage, but none would predict how soon and how far Catholic dogma would be altered.

"We are in a stage of transition, and all the problems of such a stage surely exist," said the Rev. Arthur McCormack of Belgium's Louvain University.

Jumping to Conclusions Is Careless

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

No national election campaign in the 20th century has embarrassed or bored more Americans than the present one. Everybody will be glad to get it over with — and go back to discussing something which makes them feel less uncomfortable, such as the weather.

Britain has the most handsome spies, Russia the dullest looking ones — and America the most expensive.

The best way for a girl to make an enemy of a man over 40 is to hesitate when he starts to kiss her — and then turn her cheek.

To get along with women, the thing a man needs most to remember is to call them "ladies."

If they are under 25, and "girls" if they are over 25.

I have never met a mynah bird that ever said anything truly memorable.

You are always happiest in this world when you are humming a tune — and don't realize you are doing it.

The reason more men would rather talk to a bartender than a doctor is that the bartender isn't too busy to give them the sympathy they need — and he fills his prescriptions on the spot.

I always feel sorry for people with such lousy personalities they have to start a quarrel to keep from being lonely.

A successful executive is the one who got ahead by the means he didn't write.

Wrestlers are the gentlest and most philosophic of all professional athletes. They are clowns who act with their muscles, but in their hearts would rather play "Hamlet."

No husband really trusts his wife if she breaks into applause when he makes a fool of himself by standing on his head at a party.

Nature has a way of accommodating itself to necessary changes. For example, as he grows older, a general's chest always broadens enough to provide room to hang his medals.

The most sheeplike creatures in modern life are vice presidents. If one gets a new cushion for his swivel chair, all the others in the firm have to have a new one, too. I never met a vice president who had the individuality to grow a beard.

A fellow who walks under a ladder doesn't thereby prove he isn't superstitious. It is more likely that he is just showing off.

A guy who makes his dog sit up and beg at home usually does the same trick himself at the office.

The proposal to adopt a 13-month calendar would win all our votes if we could be sure the extra month would be like October.

Practically Nothing in Campaign

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) —

There's no log cabin in the 1964 presidential campaign, absolutely no oratory and utterly no wit. But President Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater can hold their own against anyone with clichés.

But, if what they've been saying about each other makes some people a little bilious, it's been mild compared with the slander of other campaigns.

Neither Johnson nor Goldwater emerged from a log cabin. So the legend of the poor boy who made good has no attraction this year.

Johnson's origin may have been modest, but it wasn't poverty-stricken, and now that he acknowledges wealth of at least $3.5 million from a radio and television station owned by him and his wife he can't campaign as a poor man.

Neither can Goldwater. He never had to look for a job in his life, except when he got into politics and ran for election. He was born into a family that owned a department store and had a job ready and waiting for him.

And when he did go to work in it he was soon running it. Rather happily, too. His worth now is put at least $1.7 million. It's no wonder they don't spend any time talking about their lives and hard times.

The dictionary describes oratory as "the exercise of eloquence." But, while oratory in defense of an issue is no vice, eloquence in pursuit of votes is not necessarily a virtue if they can be won with plain talk.

This may explain why Johnson and Goldwater sound more like politicians than statesmen.

Johnson's speech Thursday, saying Tuesday's election will prove "there is not going to be another crack in the Liberty Bell," will not be recorded as one of the imperishable campaign utterances.

And Goldwater's statement that the "overriding issue in this campaign is what kind of America we are going to have tomorrow?" proves the point made years ago by Sen. Paul H. Douglas, Illinois Democrat, and a very learned man.

He said in today's politics the emphasis is on exposition rather than oratory.

Outside of Goldwater's crack that Johnson represented "daddyism" there hasn't been a memorable moment of oratory in the whole race.

Only some of the races of the past are remembered for their wit, and this isn't one of them. Can you remember one funny line from Johnson or Goldwater?

There has been nothing to match Harold Ickes' remark in 1940 that the Republican candidate, Wendell Willkie, the big businessman, was the "barefoot boy from Wall Street."

The tart Ickes, secretary of the interior in President Roosevelt's Cabinet, was in good form that year, as he showed by his confession that he didn't listen to Thomas Dewey, who failed to get the GOP nomination, because "I have a baby of my own."

Goldwater has called Johnson a "phony" and a "faker" who is a "little loose with the truth." And he has made a hobby of announcing there is corruption in the Johnson administration.

Johnson has been milder — although his trigger-happy implications hardly are — and has contented himself with calling Goldwater an impulsive "ranting, raving demagogue."

But all this is like an innocent grin compared with some of the things said by and about politicians in years gone.

President John Adams was called a semimaniac, Thomas Jefferson an "anti-Christ," Grover Cleveland was accused of fathering an illegitimate child and when he won the presidency Republicans chorused:

"Ma, ma, where's my pa? Gone to the White House, ha, ha, ha."

In the field of clichés Johnson and Goldwater seem no better or worse than presidential candidates of the past although they contribute their share, like these:

By Johnson — "We must keep our eyes on the stars and our feet on the ground." And by

As he turned back to his car, Gail's voice stopped him.

"Dick! Please! Let me tell you about it?"

Craig couldn't shake off his resentment. "Tell me what? The usual thing, that he was framed?"

"No, not that. Dick, please listen!"

Lew snapped at her: "Skip it, Gail. Get going."

She reached to the ignition key and turned off the motor. "This is hardly the place for an explanation."

"He didn't do it, of course."

She hesitated, her eyes imploring him to understand. "He did do it—but not in the way everyone thought." Her hands twined hard on the wheel. "Dad got himself into all that trouble by trying to help a friend."

Already it had the sound of a soap opera.

"Dad's friend, his best friend, Marty Weston, was another man on the Safe and Left Squad. It was at a time when the commissioner's special detail was investigating corruption on the force. Dad had always played it straight—his record was one of the best—but Marty was in deep."

"One night, late, Dad drove over to Marty's house just when Marty was unloading his car—radios, electrical appliances, cameras. He didn't know what Dad had just heard, that Marty had come under suspicion. Dad poured it into him, made him realize it. Marty could actually get caught cold at any minute. Dad helped him to reload the car with the idea of getting rid of all those stolen goods as fast as they could."

"Get rid of it? Just how?"

Lew answered in a heavy voice. "That part wouldn't've been too hard. An empty loft somewhere—stash it, leave it, forget it."

"But they never got that far?"

Gail went on. "They were just backing out of Marty's garage when the men of the special detail closed in on them. Marty tried to tell the commissioner that Dad had had no part in the shakedown, but technically Dad was guilty. He didn't deserve all they did to him but they punished him."

"All for a pal!" Craig said acridly.

The great orange globe of the sun was setting toward the horizon of the Gulf when Craig braked to a stop near the entrance of the Sandor Productions building. He used his key and went in and sat in the chair behind his desk.

He pulled the telephone close and dialed Sam Fergus's number. Fergus answered quickly. "Sam, did you get the cash?"

"Yes, yes, Dick." Fergus

pard most likely be watching for the signal?

The building sat out of sight of the Gulf, but toward the east it was wide open to the bay; it would be clearly visible over an area of many square miles. There was one simple fact to consider, so simple that Shepard in his short-sighted self-confidence might have overlooked it: visibility in that general direction was a two-way proposition.

He looked across the water, sweeping it from north to south, then back again. It was a confusing pattern of reflections snaking across from the Palmport waterfront. There was a single starlike gleam, wavering slightly, low toward the northeast—the anchor light of the powerboat that Craig had previously noticed.

Now something was happening out there. The boat's green and red running lights flashed on. They began to drift; they traced a segment of a circle, then steadied into a direct heading, south-westward. Coming on steadily, the boat was making for the bay front a few miles to the north of Craig's position. If it held its course, it would put it at the only pier near the upper end of Grove Road—that at the Windward Marine Ways.

Craig drove to a point a quarter of a mile short of the marina, left his car there and walked rapidly until he reached the sand lot behind the supply shop.

He looked past the shop and found the lights of the boat. Still approaching directly, it was a boat midway across the bay. He had time to reconnoiter.

The green panel truck was sitting in its usual place. He opened its rear doors. The body was an almost empty cavity; apparently it had been cleared out for a special use. Aside from a few banks of old rope, there was nothing in it except a stained tarpaulin, folded and spread over the floor. These few layers of canvas would hardly make a comfortable bed, but an unconscious man wouldn't mind.

Only one outdoor light was burning in the whole marina, a fixture attached to a pole at the base of the pier. Craig walked through the shadow of the building and around the corner. In the side wall, near the next corner, there was a weathered wooden door. A circular hole was left where the lock had been removed, and a rusty hasp had been substituted.

Several times last summer, he had come here to fish off the pier. An ancient tub named Eva was usually moored there, with her skipper pattering about—a taciturn bony, leathery old-timer named Ches Becker. Becker had seemed too weebe gone to want to talk much; it had been an acquaintance meaningless in itself; yet it had led to a disastrous episode.

During the last Fourth of July holiday weekend Hugo Sandor had been seized by the notion of

At 50 The Kids Sees TV as Future

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The Kid" is 50.

There is still a touch of boyishness in his face, though his head is slick as a casaba—caused partly by age, partly shaved for television series. His outlook is youthful as ever. Jackie Coogan at the half-century mark is a thoroughly alive legend. At 6 months he made his movie debut in a film starring Bryant Washburn in Chicago. At 2 he toddled onstage during his father's vaudeville act and so convulsed the audience that he became part of the act.

At 4 he was playing in the Coogan act in Los Angeles when Charlie Chaplin happened to be in the audience. Jackie seemed to be just the right boy for a movie, the comedian had been planning, "The Kid." Jackie's face, cap askew, eyes furtively searching for the cop on the beat, became famous the world over.

On a day off from playing Uncle Fester in "The Addams Family" television series, Jackie relaxed in his modest North Hollywood home and talked about his birthday this week and other matters.

"I didn't have a party or anything like that," he said. "I dropped by CBS to chat with Red Skelton. Then I came home and had a quiet dinner with my wife and daughter, who is 11. My wife cooked a goose I had shot at the opening of duck season, and we had a cake."

Jackie was the first great child star of films, and he set the pattern for those to follow.

"We pioneered the commercial tieup market," he recalled. "At one time my name was on 50 or more current items, from dolls to pencil boxes. Peck and Peck paid us $100,000 per year to put out a Jackie Coogan line of clothes. Millions and millions of cas were sold."

Where did all the money go? Not to Jackie. After turning 21, he sued his mother and stepfather for an accounting of the $4 million he said he earned as a minor. He never saw the money. California enacted "the Jackie Coogan law" which now protects the earnings of child actors.

During his near top years in show business, Jackie has made 125 movies, numerous tours in vaudeville, including one with his first wife, Betty Grable; legitimate plays and night clubs; 750 television shows.

"TV is where my future lies," said Jackie. "I think there is no end to its possibilities."

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jokesters answering phones on CBS "The Entertainers" set often say "Entertainers Ward" these days. And Bob Newhart, one of the show's stars, refers to it as "The Hope Diamond Show."

Carol Burnett, its top star, is hospitalized — in traction — with an injury to the spine — "probably the result of five years of pratfalls because I'm not a professional tumbler."

Imogene Coca, in her guest-star appearance on the show tonight, will be immobilized on a swivel chair — result of breaking an ankle bone two weeks ago.

Now Gwen Verdon, the dancer, scheduled to appear on Nov. 6, has fractured a small bone in her foot. She will be able to walk — gingerly — and perhaps play in a sketch, but there will be no dancing.

Miss Burnett, while having her vertebrae stretched, has been exposed to day-time television.

"I can turn a little to one side," she explained, "but I can't move my head down, so I can't read. There's nothing to do except watch television."

"I watch the reruns of old movies, reruns of 'My Little Margie,' reruns of 'I Love Lucy,' and of course 'Password' and 'You Don't Say.'"

"But the real excitement is the soap operas — 'As the World Turns' and 'Guiding Light' and the rest."

Her doctors are X-raying her neck and back today, and if her condition is sufficiently improved, she may be able to go home next week — "to hang myself."

"Literally, hang myself," she added mournfully. "There's a machine with seven pounds of weight attached to it and I have to keep using it."

At the moment, however, she has no idea when she'll be well enough to go back to work.

Weekend television is awash with political shows, particularly on Sunday afternoon and early evening. In addition to news shows about the candidates, the issues and the polls, the three major networks are busily promoting individual plans to cover the returns on election night.

General Philip Sheridan's famous ride extended about 20 miles from Winchester to Cedar Creek Va.

Separating Men From the Boys

By WALTER R. MEARS

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) — "That was to separate the men from the boys," Sen. Barry Goldwater said after his campaign jet roared through a low-level swoop over a Tennessee airport.

Most of the reporters who travel with the Republican presidential candidate were ready today to sign up with the boys.

They sat, silent and ashen-faced, as pilot Ralph Long executed the pass without telling his passengers — Goldwater included — what was going on.

The Boeing 727 took off from Tri-Cities Airport for Cleveland, Ohio, climbed several thousand feet — then swung into a tight turn and roared toward the runway.

As the plane raced toward the ground, Goldwater hurried to the cockpit to find out what was happening. Long told him and the senator, a jet pilot himself, went back to his seat, chuckling.

Long told newsmen he made the pass at about 350 knots at 400 feet. But to a reporter, looking out the window, the plane seemed closer to tree-top level.

Goldwater's press secretary, Paul F. Wagner, said Long cooked up the maneuver with friends in the Tri-Cities control tower. Long, a veteran American Airlines pilot, had landed at Bristol in an antique Ford trimotor once, and buzzed the field then when he took off. Wagner said Long's friends invited him to do it again.

Roger Mahan, chief of air traffic control for the Federal Aviation Agency at Bristol, said the pass was "prearranged before takeoff." He said there was no other air traffic in the area.

"Calling it fun doesn't make it fun," one reporter said after the incident.

"I didn't think it would frighten you," Long told newsmen. It did.

Let's aim for Achievement...

ELECT

TRAVIS BEESON

Lieutenant Governor

The incumbent Lieutenant Governor was first elected 18 years ago as a reform candidate opposing "entrenched politicians." In 9 terms his record for achievement stands at zero. His salary is $2400 annually, the office expense for 1962-63, alone, exceeded $20,000.

Travis Beeson will promote those precepts held to be our American Heritage and actively oppose further inroads upon the basic freedoms of our citizens, our property rights, the competitive free enterprise system and constitutional government.

Travis Beeson will work with the State's administration and the legislature toward bettering our State and our people's economic and social welfare, particularly toward securing new industry and promoting our education system. Let the expense of this office be aimed toward achievement.

ELECT TRAVIS BEESON, REPUBLICAN LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

This Is The Day Of Decision

I earnestly solicit the vote of every Arkansan, and I pledge to continue an administration of which you can be justifiably proud.

Orval E. Faubus

Pol. Ad. Pd for by Orval E. Faubus

choose this man to be your governor...

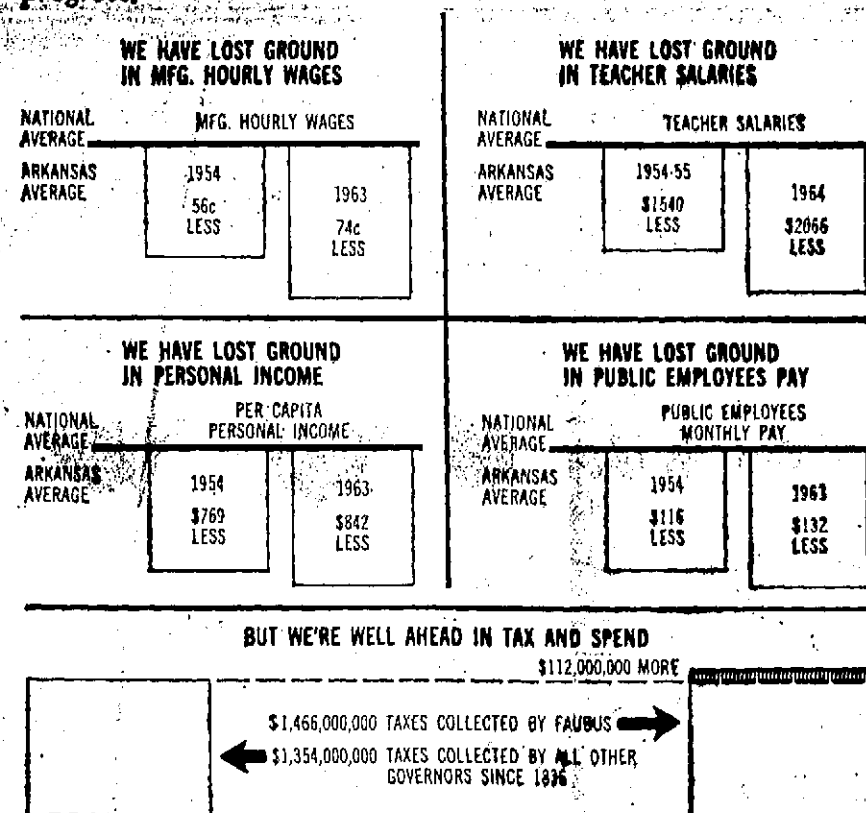

When Win Wins he will be back . . .
. . . in mainstreet meetings all over Arkansas

Win Rockefeller has campaigned in every County in Arkansas — he has taken the issues to the people. In AIDC work and in work with the Arts Center, Win Rockefeller has known and worked with the people. He knows that issues are people; that people are issues; that problems such as roads, jobs, schools, and industrial development exist in the regions of Arkansas.

That's why, when you elect him Governor, Rockefeller will be back to the people in mainstreet meetings in all the regions of Arkansas. Help will come to your region from a friendly, cooperative State government. You'll be rid of the arrogant, distant one we have known for the last 10 years.

The State capitol will move right to mainstreet in your region for several days each year. Civic, agricultural, county, educational, labor, and other leaders in your community will meet with the Governor and other department heads to hear your problems and devise solutions for them in cooperation with the people. Mainstreet meetings are government with the people, and that's what you'll have with Win Rockefeller as your governor.

Our progress has been delayed too long. These charts show that in the past 10 years, Arkansas has slipped. We are actually losing ground, even though we have willingly paid high taxes because we thought we were going to get real progress.

Why have we lost ground . . . why are we falling behind what was a poor position to begin with?

Isn't it because our government has gone stale at the top? Isn't our governmental leadership distrustful of the people? Isn't it machine-controlled and arrogant?

When government loses faith in the people, waste sets in. Your tax money is spent carelessly. Gigantic administrative buildings are built, and payrolls grow and grow and grow.

In just the welfare department alone, administrative costs have nearly tripled in the past 10 years while the number of welfare recipients remains about the same. Who suffers? The welfare recipients who need the money spent for overhead.

The only place we're first in education in Arkansas is in cost of administration per student; in nearly every other category we are near the bottom among the 50 states in education. Who suffers? The school children of Arkansas who deserve a better break.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

We must elect Win Rockefeller, the man with a plan . . . a plan that will take government back to the people . . . a plan that will solve Arkansas' problems region by region, where people live.

With proper planning region by region, we can increase tourism. We can create new jobs by bringing in more industry. Revenue from an expanding economy will let us build more and better roads at last, and will bring better education to our children.

Our population will grow as our natural resources are developed, region by region. More people will come to Arkansas as we develop and make more accessible — and preserve — our magnificent wilderness and scenic areas.

This plan for Arkansas cannot be fulfilled by an arrogant government; it must be fulfilled by a government that works with the people.

You have a chance in this election to choose a man who knows the people . . . who will be back in your region as governor to work out problems with you in mainstreet meetings.

That man is Win Rockefeller.

Zambia Fine for African Nationalists

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Zambia, the newest independent nation in Africa, is ideally situated to be the jump-off point for African nationalists who want to end white rule in neighboring Rhodesia and in the Portuguese-ruled areas of Angola and Mozambique.

The so-called freedom fighters, who want to end the last white rule in Africa, could move easily from Zambia into those adjoining areas. That would bring them a step nearer to South Africa, whose white government they hate worst of all.

But Zambia's location makes it nothing but an ideal springboard for invaders of Rhodesia and Mozambique — as far as Zambia's interests are concerned.

Zambia's wealth comes from its copper mines, manganese and is financed by British and South African interests. The copper can only move to world markets through rail lines across Rhodesia and Mozambique to the sea.

President Kenneth Kaunda hopes that some day the copper can travel by rail across Tanganyika, on the northeast. But that railway is many years and much money away.

Meanwhile Kaunda must remain on friendly terms with the neighboring white rulers.

Many Southern Rhodesian and South African firms operate in the capital of Lusaka and in the smaller rural areas. The major capital comes from these white-ruled countries.

Zambia's shops are stacked with foodstuffs from South Africa and Rhodesia. Much of the steel used in this country comes from South Africa. So too does much of the machinery, and many South African whites manage the country's secondary industries.

Out of economic necessity, Kaunda finds himself closely allied to the southern white states.

But during a hard-hitting in-sisted: "Zambia will rededicate itself to fight imperialism and colonialism wherever it exists. We shall welcome freedom fighters from all Africa. At the same time I reserve the right to tell the freedom fighters what to do."

He warned: "Should Americans, Russians or Chinese misbehave in Zambia they will be sent packing home to their countries. Zambians should also remember that plotting against the State of Zambia is treason and the penalty is death."

Johnson's SS Stand Criticized

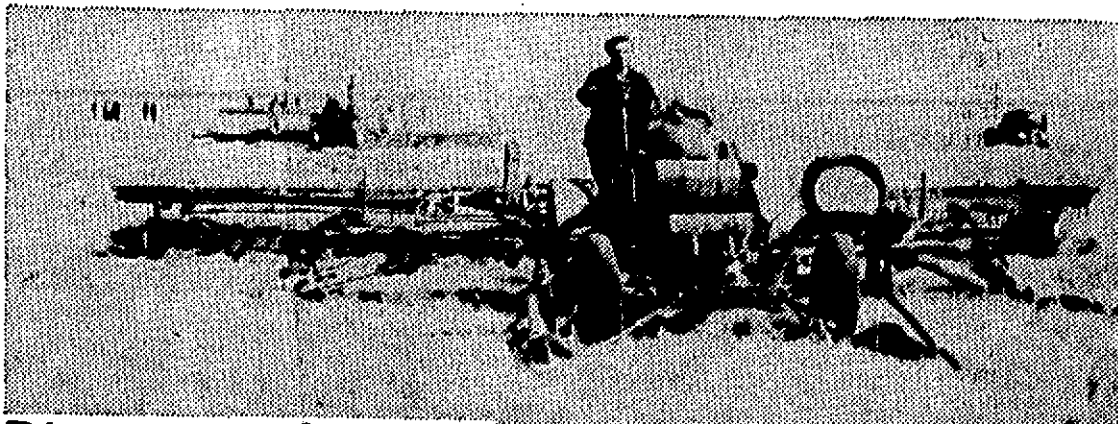

By ROBERT T. GRAY

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) — President Johnson was accused Wednesday night by GOP vice-presidential candidate William E. Miller of having been more interested in keeping Social Security as a campaign issue than in raising benefits for the elderly.

Swinging into the closing days of his campaign, Miller told a rally that the Democrats now are using "cute little ads on TV" to portray Sen. Barry Goldwater as opposed to Social Security.

The issue was one of several on which Miller hit at Johnson and his running mate, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, as the GOP nominee heads into the home stretch of his campaign.

Miller's schedule took him in search of votes today from Missoula, Mont., to Coeur d'Alene, on into the Pacific Northwest, and then down to Santa Barbara, Calif.

Miller spoke Wednesday night to an overflow crowd in the 1,000-seat auditorium of Montana State University at Missoula.

In addition to hitting at Johnson on the Social Security issue, Miller repeated what has been a basic ingredient of all his political speeches — a detailed defense of Goldwater against Democratic charges that the vice is a warmonger.

Miller, who received an enthusiastic welcome from the crowd, said that Goldwater's basic position was one of "peace through strength." He said that Democrats were allowing the nation's military strength to sag, thereby courting the risk of war.

In his speech, Miller mentioned a Democratic-sponsored television commercial showing a Social Security card being torn up with the comment that Goldwater advocated politics that could destroy the system.

Miller said that President Johnson could have won 1964 Social Security bill, which provided increased benefits, if the President had been willing to drop his request for a medicare revision in the legislation.

Goldwater would have voted for the bill without medicare, Miller said. He said that Johnson was "more interested in getting a political issue than in helping our elderly citizens."

Thinks World Communist Meet Coming

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

A.P. Special Correspondent

A world Communist meeting — with Red China attending — is a probability in the near future. But any attempt to heal the split in the global revolutionary movement seems headed for failure.

The new Soviet regime in all likelihood will be unwilling and unable to pay Peking's high price for peace.

Nikita Khrushchev's scalp was only the first installment the Chinese Communists demand for muzzling communism's internal warfare.

Khrushchev's successors — party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin — seem anxious to mute the noisy criticism from Red China and its allies. But if they are going to get anywhere, they must eventually show a tougher policy toward the United States and even risk new tensions. It is doubtful the new regime wants to alarm the Soviet people with a prospect of a turn backward toward Stalinism. It does not want to alarm the European Communist satellites, which have had a faint taste of independence. It does not want to alarm West European Communists, whose only prospects for gains lie in lulling the opposition.

Khrushchev's successors claim to support his policies of peaceful coexistence and higher living standards at home. At the same time they claim to stand for restoring world Communist unity.

Brezhnev and Kosygin cannot have all these things. The best they can hope for is a lull in the wordy battle with Peking. A lull is in effect now. Since Khrushchev's fall the Soviet press and he Red Chinese have been silent about differences with Moscow. But the aloof Chinese are watching and waiting for developments.

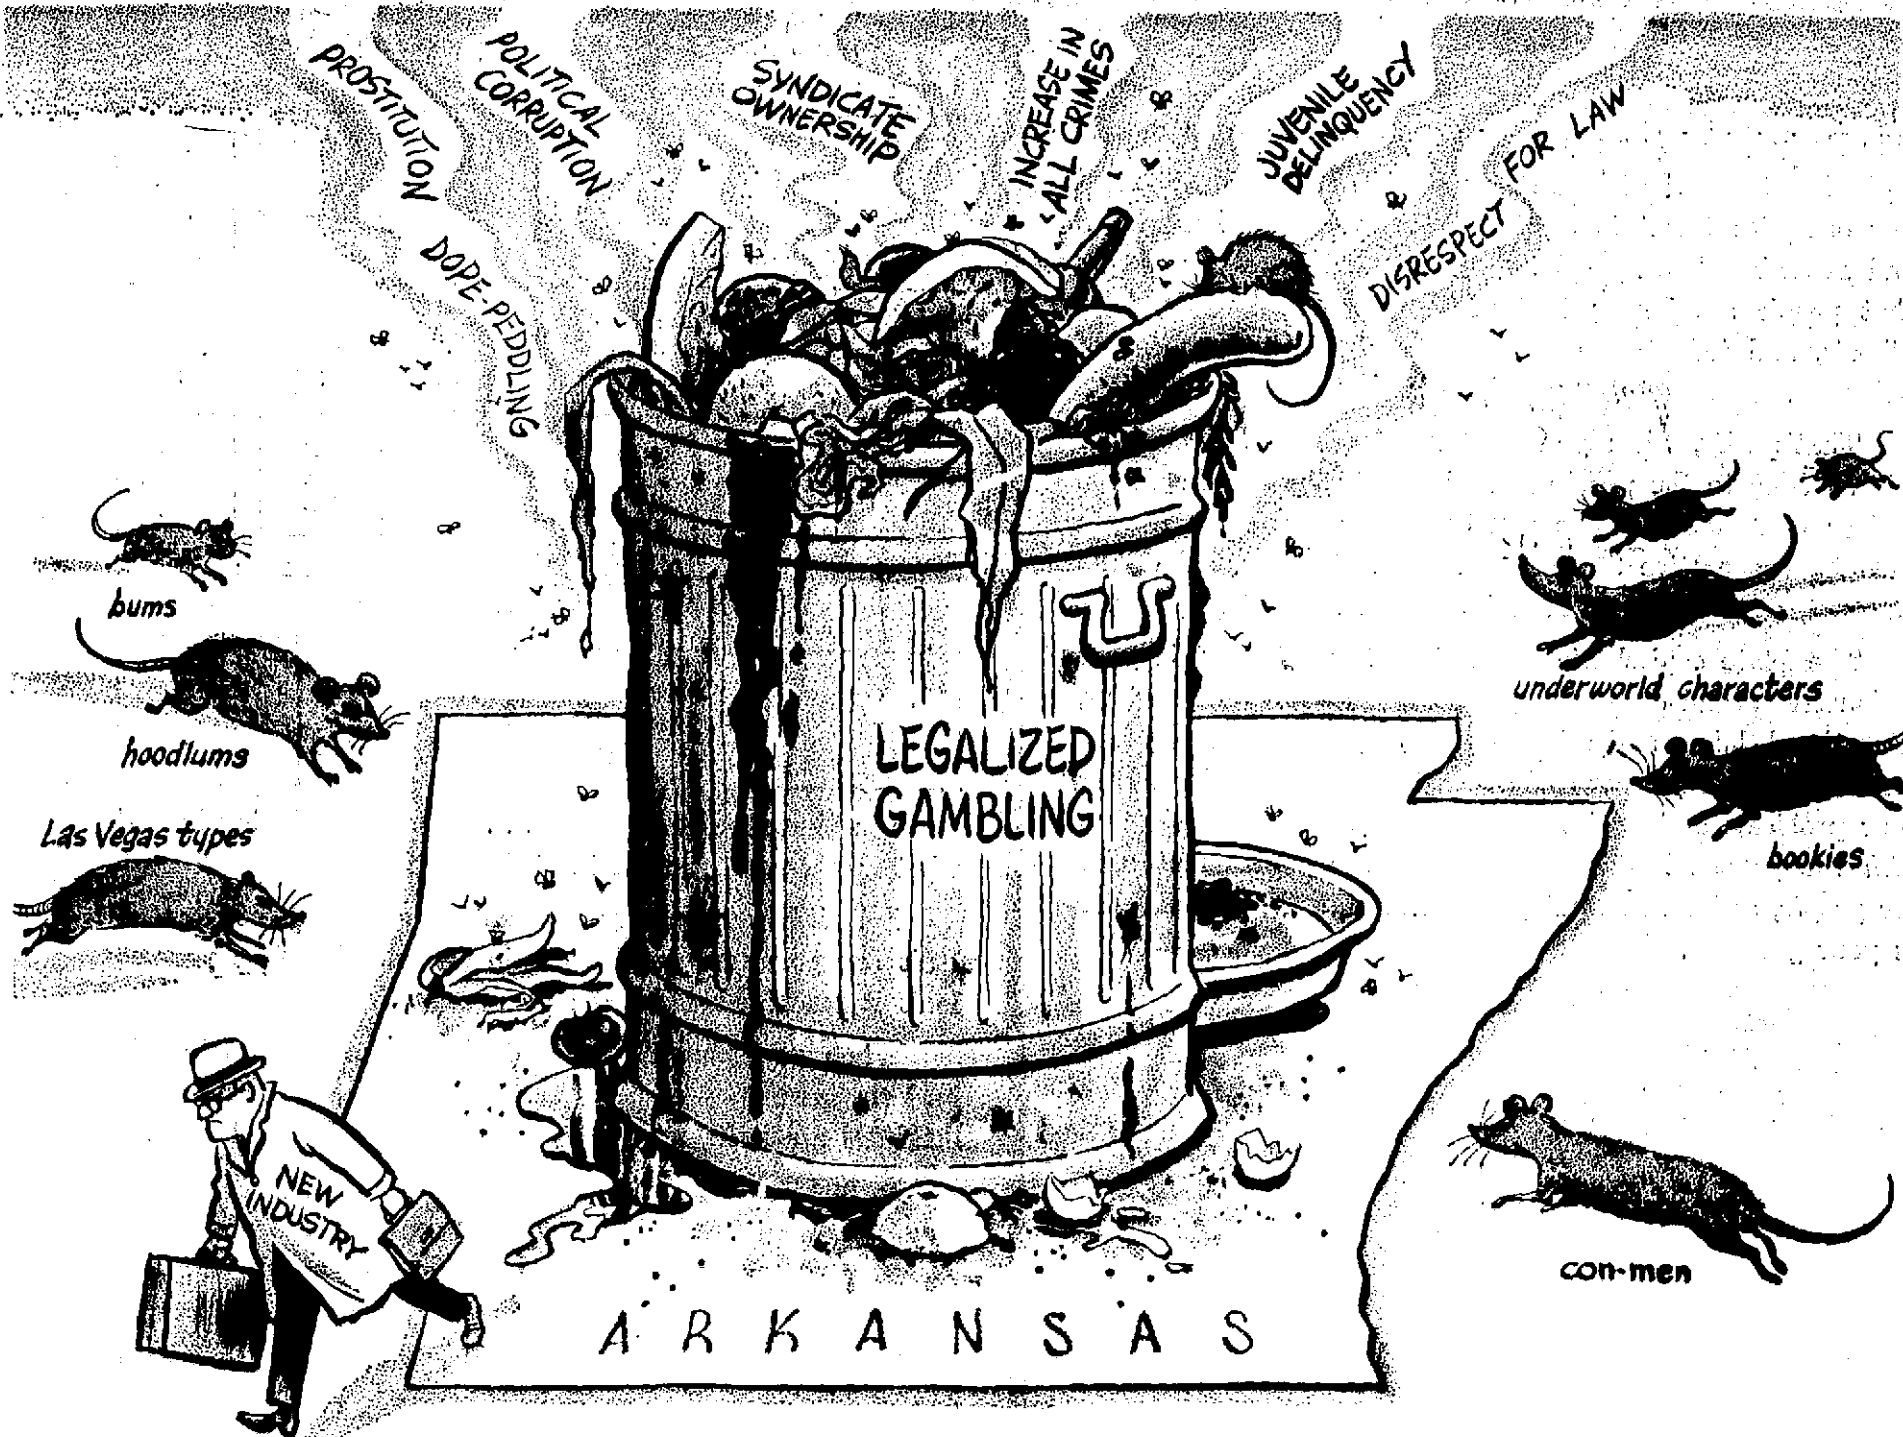

The Chinese Communists seem interested now in a meeting with Moscow. They had rejected Khrushchev's call for a preparatory meeting Dec. 15 intended to lead to a world conference of 50 parties in mid-1965, but things have changed. A conference, now likely, would be welcomed by Peking, anxious to probe Soviet intentions and seek tokens from Moscow that it has mended its ways.

Agriculture Conditions Unfavorable

By WICK TEMPLE
Associated Press Writer

Agricultural conditions in the Central Mississippi Valley are less favorable this year than last, but fortunately for Arkansas the worst-hurt crops are in other states.

The research department of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis figures that the relatively high level of cash receipts in the early months of the year was the result of late marketings of last year's crops.

Arkansas' cash receipts from farm marketings in the first seven months of 1964 was even with the same period last year. Kentucky showed a 25 per cent gain, Mississippi 0, Tennessee 11 and Missouri lost two per cent.

But in every major cash crop but corn, the forecast for Arkansas production is up. The Agriculture Department's October estimate shows oats up 69 per cent, wheat up 182 per cent, rice up three per cent, soybeans up 24 per cent and cotton up four per cent.

The tremendous increase in wheat production is due to major acreage increases.

Other states have not been so fortunate, perhaps because of dry weather which has hurt some areas. Mississippi's rice crop is down three per cent. Missouri's oat crop is down 19 per cent and cotton crop is down four per cent. Tennessee's cotton crop is down one per cent.

Kentucky registers a 22 per cent decrease in the important tobacco crop.

Three states in the Valley show decline in the corn crop: Arkansas 35 per cent, Kentucky 19, Missouri 23. Mississippi's crop is up seven per cent and Tennessee is even.

The decline in crop production estimated for the area reflects a shortage of moisture throughout most of the planting and growing seasons, the Federal Reserve Bank says. This was not true in all parts of Arkansas.

Hardest hit by the drought were Central and Southern Illinois, Southern Indiana and Central Missouri.

Yield estimates for most crops are well below 1963 levels in the major producing sections of the Central Mississippi Valley but, again, not in Arkansas. Percentage acreage yield is down 26 per cent on Arkansas corn, but up 28 per cent in oats, 6 in wheat, 2 in rice and soy-

"DEAR ABBY"

NEITHER ONE NOR THE OTHER

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: While I was in the living room reading the newspaper, a TV repairman was in the same room working on our set. He had taken the set apart and there were parts all over the floor. My wife pranced into the room with her dress hanging open in the back. She went straight to this TV repairman and asked him if he would mind zipping her up. His hands were dirty, so he just wiped beans and 4 in cotton.

Other states show at least one serious drop in another major crop besides corn.

A major factor in the decline of cash farm receipts has been the generally lower average prices for livestock. Cattle prices averaged about 12 per cent below year-earlier levels throughout the first eight months of the year. Hogs averaged three per cent lower and broilers five per cent less.

Livestock prices have increased in recent weeks and, in hogs, have exceeded levels of last year. But it is unlikely, the federal researchers say, that average livestock and livestock product prices for 1964 will equal the 1963 average.

Prices of the most important crops are also below the 1963 levels. Cotton has been about seven per cent lower in recent weeks and, with reduced government support prices, probably will average lower throughout the marketing season. Corn and soybean prices have been slightly below 1963 levels and rice has been about unchanged.

ed them on a rag and zipped her up. After he left I said to my wife, "Why did you ask that repairman to do it? I could have done that for you." She replied, "Your eyes aren't very good and you never get that little hook at the top." I told her it would have been better had she forgotten "that little hook at the top" if she had to ask a strange man to help her get dressed. She says I am making a mountain out of a molehill. I would like your opinion.

HER HUSBAND

Dear Husband: Your wife was behaving like a bit of an exhibitionist on the wrong end of the picture tube. But don't brood about it. Had she been trying to make points with the stranger she wouldn't have done it in your presence. Get a magnifying glass and magnify "that little hook at the top" instead of the incident.

Dear Abby: So out of the 556 couples that minister married in one year 354 asked him to "alter" the dates on their wedding certificates? Have I ever lived a sheltered life! In over 22 years of performing hundreds of marriage ceremonies, I have never had even one such request.

Maybe they knew I would not have falsified a legal document for my own mother. Or perhaps it's just the difference between the Californians who marry at home, and those who go to such places as Nevada to tie the knot.

Dick plays Slattery, a legislator in a mythical state, on "Slattery's People."

A Bear Hug From Russian Embarrassing

By CONRAD FINK
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — S. A. Dange can testify that a bear hug from a Russian may prove embarrassing—four years later.

Dange is the beleaguered leader of the pro-Russian wing of India's splintered Communist party.

Nikita Khrushchev was beginning a tour of India in 1960 when he met Dange at the airport. He wrapped himself around the Indian Red in a show of affection that clearly indicated Dange was Khrushchev's man in India.

For four years, the hug served serious situation there are always two sides to the problem and I'm going to give it further consideration before I come to a final conclusion.

The answer almost always works — except with the television critic.

"We've had only two critics who don't like the show," says Dick. "And one of them has been knocking us almost weekly. But he doesn't criticize the acting, he takes shots at our political stands."

When the show started out, most of the letter writers asked for an episode on civil rights.

"We haven't done one, because that wasn't the type of situation we had in mind. People are getting the hang of what we're doing now — like the show on bribery we just finished rehearsing."

For years, Crenna was squeaky-voiced teenager Walter Denton on "Our Miss Brooks." Then he switched to hillbilly Luke McCoy on "The Real McCoys."

Crenna's career is on the upswing. He also has the title role in the comedy movie "John Goldfarb, Please Come Home" which will open during the Christmas holidays.

HIGH LOSS—Monty Stickles, of the San Francisco 49ers, was high on his chances of catching this pass, but he lost the ball in midair.

Dange well as he struggled to survive cut-throat infighting that all but wrecked the Indian party. After the 1962 India-Communist China border war, pro-Chinese Reds split away. But about 60 per cent of India's Communists chose Khrushchev as their idol and kept the man he hugged as their leader.

Now the infighting is reviving. Reds who survived the last intramural battle are scrambling to land on the right side now that Khrushchev is gone.

Initial policy guidelines from the top reportedly are, in effect, "down with Khrushchev and everybody he bear-hugged."

No Support in California on Housing Law

By ROB WOOD

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)

Few political or religious leaders have raised their voices in support of a proposed California constitutional amendment aimed at nullifying most of a state law banning housing discrimination.

But the silent voter apparently has made his decision on Proposition 14 without being swayed by the fiery debates over the controversial issue.

Recent polls indicate the initiative measure will carry Nov. 3.

The proposed amendment would give property owners absolute discretion in the choice of a buyer or renter of their property. It would nullify those provisions of antidiscrimination laws which restrict that discretion, and also prohibit the enactment of future legislation in the same field by the legislature or local governments.

Democratic Gov. Edmund

Brown, one of the most vocal of the opponents, admitted recently, "I think it will carry but there will definitely be a court test case immediately."

State Democratic Chairman Roger Kent told newsmen his party was pledged to "what seems a losing cause — a no vote on Proposition 14."

Joining Brown in opposition to the proposal have been California's two U.S. senators — Democrat Pierre Salinger and Republican Thomas Kuchel. Also opposed are the president pro tem of the California Senate, Democrat Hugh Barnes; the Republican minority leader, Sen. John F. McCarthy; and assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, one of the most powerful Democrats in the state.

Republican senatorial candidate George Murphy has refused to take a stand on the issue.

Although most religious organizations have condemned the measure, 20 members of the Ministers of Conservative Association in the San Francisco area spoke up in favor of the proposal.

While the Republican State Central Committee did not take a stand on the issue, the main volunteer GOP organizations support the initiative.

The Rumford Act, passed in the final 10 minutes of the 1963 legislative session, outlaws discrimination because of race, color, religion or national origin in about 70 per cent of California housing.

The California Young Republicans board of directors also endorsed the proposition.

If Khrushchev's successors try to quiet down the quarrel with Communist China, Dange will be in for rough days. For like Khrushchev, has been bitter in his condemnation of Peking.

Dange would be a great obstacle to any attempts toward reunification of the Indian Communist movement, just as Khrushchev was regarded by the Chinese as an obstacle to Communist cooperation on an international scale.

If a decision has been made to heal up the wounds in India's Communist party, Dange, like Khrushchev, almost certainly would have to go.

Complicated Plots Aired in Playboy Club License Case

NEW YORK (AP) — A tale of chain operations and a prosecution witness, testified that Morton testified that Epstein had been holding up the license had been holding up the license had been holding up the license

The case ranges from scantily clad waitresses with "rabbit ears" to an alleged grafter in high office, to a Republican state chairman who quit without explanation.

The plots within a plot grow more complicated in the day-to-day chapters related from the witness stand.

Ralph Berger, 53, former Chicago night club operator and public relations man, is on trial on conspiracy charges. The principal accusation is that he was the key man in a plot to obtain a Playboy Club liquor license by paying a $50,000 bribe to Mr. C. Epstein, chairman of the State Liquor Authority.

There has been testimony that L. Judson Morhouse, former GOP state chairman and political confidant of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, sought a minimum of $100,000 for legal advice to playboy magazine enterprises.

The indictment against Berger names Morhouse as a co-conspirator but not a defendant. He is the first witness at the trial.

Defense counsel Joseph Brill, Arnold J. Morton, vice president in charge of Playboy Club about the 1961 negotiations and subsequent events. Morton testified that Epstein had been holding up the license had been holding up the license had been holding up the license

Brill asked what a "so-called sophisticated male" meant. Morton gave this definition: "He purchases the type of clothes the Playboy (the magazine) advertises. He enjoys good food, good entertainment, hi-fi, stereo, enjoys driving sports cars."

Brill asked if there were "any other appeals" to such males. "Yes," Morton replied. "Beautiful women in a bunny costume."

He described the costume as "a silk fabric bathing suit with bunny ears, cuffs and collar."

Brill asked: "With the largest portion of the female body exposed?" Morton said: "It didn't expose as much as a bikini."

THE PEOPLE SPEAK FOR AMENDMENT 55!

"I think it will increase the tourist traffic through Van Buren because people from Oklahoma and Missouri pass through here on their way to Hot Springs. Also, if Amendment 55 fails there will be an increase in the gasoline tax and people in my business don't want that. That's why I am for Amendment 55."

Merle Barenburg
Service Station Operator
Van Buren, Arkansas

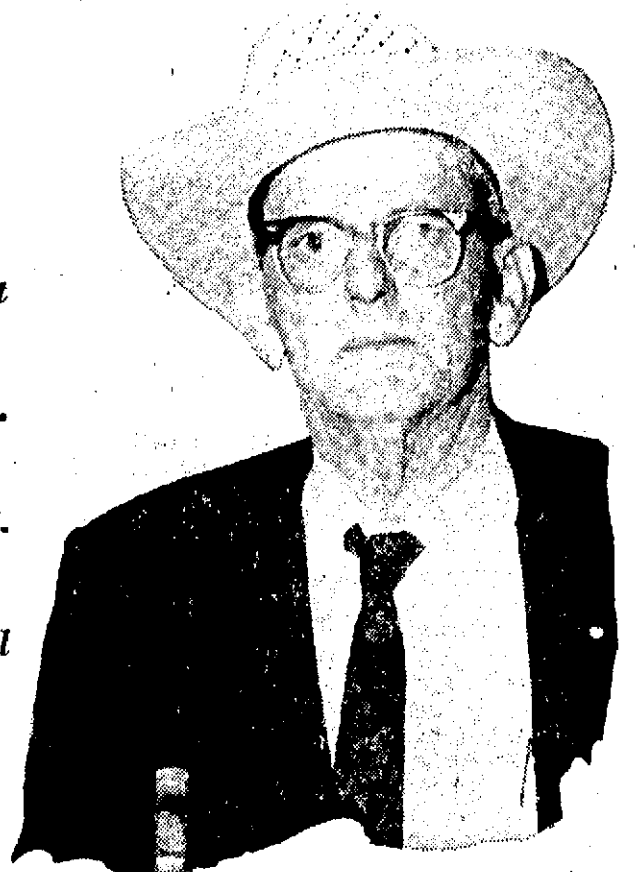

"I'm for it. We already control and tax horse racing in Hot Springs so why not control and tax all wagering there. This will bring in millions more in tax revenues without raising existing taxes. Every day our newspapers talk about more tax revenues needed for schools, highways and welfare. The money has to come from somewhere and I'd rather it came from taxes on gamblers and tourists than pay more taxes myself."

Mrs. Sandra Carlisle
Housewife and Mother
Little Rock, Arkansas

"I think it would be the best thing that ever happened to Hot Springs and the State of Arkansas as a whole. There's been gambling ever since its been a town and always will be and legalization will take it out of the hands of the racketeers and put it under state control just like the race track at Oaklawn Park is."

W. A. "Bill" Thornton
Auction House Operator
Malvern, Arkansas

"I feel it is strictly an economic issue involved here. It would stimulate the state's economy and provide needed tax revenues. If it isn't passed, we can look forward to a tax increase which for the laboring man is the same as a wage cut. Furthermore, I think it's about time the casinos were regulated and made to pay taxes like any other business."

James Morland

President, American Flint Glass Workers Union
Local No. 92, Fort Smith, Arkansas

"I'm all for it. It will bring in plenty of tax revenue without an increase in the people's taxes. There's been gambling over there my whole lifetime and I say let's tax it and let our people benefit."

Mrs. Louise Brooks
Widow
Little Rock, Arkansas

"I feel under the circumstances that it is the proper thing to do. It's a problem we are faced with and I feel that it would be better for all concerned if it was legalized and supervised. Nor do I feel it will encourage gambling. People who desire to gamble will find gambling regardless; those who don't won't look for it."

Reverend Bob Lane
Pentecost Minister
Crawford County, Arkansas

"I hope they legalize it. They're going to gamble in Hot Springs anyway. I don't gamble but I don't want to pay any more taxes myself so let them tax the tourists and gamblers. Besides, it only legalizes gambling in Garland County so if they want it let them have it."

Mrs. Ruth Thomason
Housewife
Little Rock, Arkansas

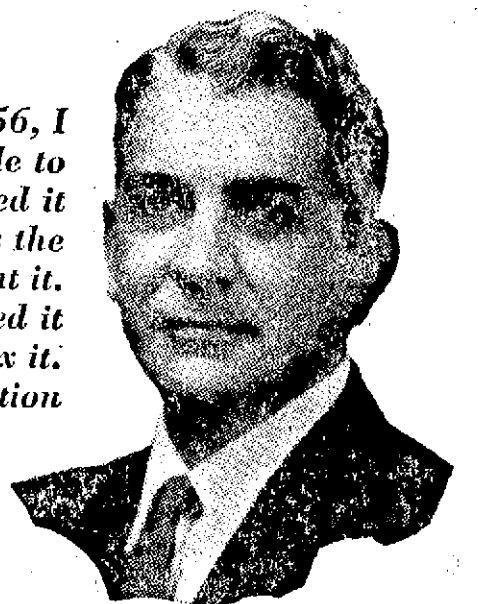

"I'm all for it. I think that it would be much better for everyone that is concerned if it was legalized, controlled and regulated than the way it is now. I feel it will discourage gambling for our young folks because they would not be allowed to go into legally controlled places, whereas, the way it is now, illegal places are open to everyone."

Reverend Al Darris
Baptist Minister
Rudy, Arkansas

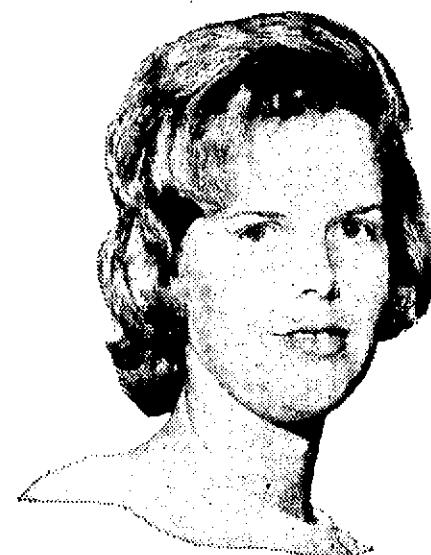

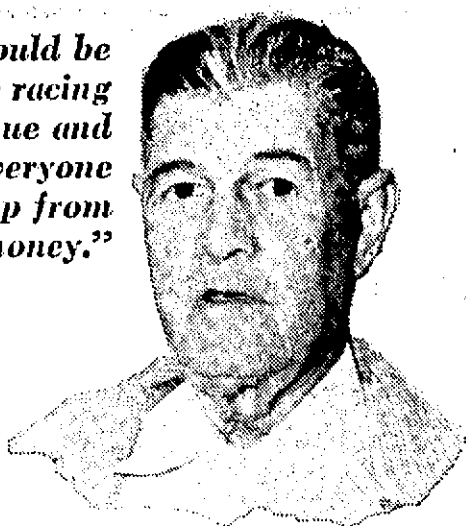

"As Attorney General in 1956, I made every legal effort possible to close Hot Springs, but determined it could not be done as long as the people of Garland County want it. I think it is high time we legalized it so that we can control and tax it. I believe it is the ultimate solution to the problem."

Tom Gentry
Attorney at Law
Little Rock, Arkansas

"I think Amendment 55 should be passed. If it is taxed like horse racing it should bring in twice the revenue and help everyone in the state. Everyone on welfare will get some help from all the extra tax money."

James J. Ogden
Welfare Recipient
Hot Springs, Arkansas

"I'm for Amendment 55. I have a little boy so I'm especially interested in the tax money that will go to public education. Otherwise, it doesn't effect me because it's in Garland County, and I think the people of Garland County should decide the issue for themselves."

Frances Barenburg
Housewife and Mother
